Nandini Seth, FPM Decision Sciences, 3rd Year

I started my FPM journey with hopes of doing first-rate research in the quantitative disciplines. The experience so far has been nothing short of my expectations. IIMB has provided me with a progressive environment to apply my knowledge to a variety of interdisciplinary projects along with enhancing my skill set by offering indispensable coursework.

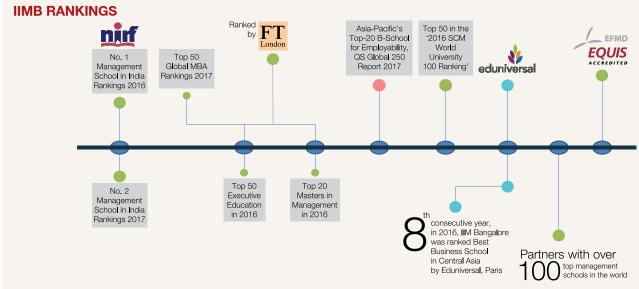

Prabhu Venkatachalam, FPM Finance, 3rd Year

I think FPM is one of the best ways to pursue higher studies in Finance & Accounting in India and to contribute to the evolving body of literature. The coursework here is replete with doctoral level classes on finance & accounting theory, research methods and evolving trends in finance & accounting research. The area has research faculty with several years of rich experience in teaching doctoral courses who spend quality time encouraging and guiding us in our academic & research pursuits. There are numerous scholars from foreign universities who visit IIMB regularly to present their latest research and to conduct workshops. The overall structure and environment enables us to carry out rigourous research and apply finance in diverse contexts to make meaningful contributions to society.
